Comment Text :

- 1 ☐ ---> Start the EIS process over again. There are too many questions
  - 2 ☐ about safety that still are unanswered. ☐ It is disturbing that you are apparently bent on trying to change the rules in a bid to send the waste to Nevada no matter what is found.
It's just plain wrong -- and bad science -- to make it easier to get the repository built simply because scientists are discovering it's impossible to do so under the existing guidelines.
This is an important issue, which doesn't leave any room for error, and as such the federal government cannot continue to hold a nonchalant attitude regarding the disposal of high-level nuclear waste. ☐ I'm surprised you haven't suggested storing the waste in the Washington Monument in Washington, D.C.
